

Costco has selected Sopra HR Software as a partner to manage its employees

Costco Wholesale, the American multinational corporation, which operates a chain of membership-only warehouse clubs, has chosen Sopra HR Software as a provider of solutions for managing payroll, personnel, reporting tools and the collaborative workspace for employees, managers and HR professionals in Spain.

As a leader in digital transformation, Sopra HR Software offers technology tailored to the deployment of Costco's business activities undertaken.

Among the components in the Sopra HR Software end-to-end offering, Costco selected the processing model to control its processes. The customer will therefore have a dedicated, optimized platform to manage its employees, calculate payroll and provide collaborative workspaces. Costco will also be benefiting from Sopra HR Software's experience in handling retail processes.

Sopra HR Software will provide its customer with a solution to meet each of its needs:

- Delegating technological responsibility to a specialized provider with a comprehensive HR solution
- Optimizing Costco's employee management payroll processes through Sopra HR Software's expertise in retail
- Assistance from a strategic partner with experience in digital transformation and HRIS projects
- Access to the platform from points of sales for all employees, based on their participation in the processes

- Monitoring and management of time and attendance to meet the company's needs and requirements

Les principales raisons qui ont conduit Costco à choisir Sopra HR Software comme fournisseur de services de gestion de la paie sont l'adaptabilité de sa solution à la problématique quotidienne du métier, son accompagnement pour la croissance et le déploiement prévus, enfin son positionnement et son expertise dans le secteur commerce et distribution en Espagne.

Mauricio Potente, General Manager of Sopra HR Software for Spain, Italy and Portugal, stated: "We are proud that a multinational corporation such as Costco chose us as their strategic partner for the digital transformation of their HR information system. Sopra HR Software will assist them in their strategy and provide efficient, flexible and upgradeable solutions and services."
